League of Women Voters - Hill Country Texas meeting set for Saturday

Sarah Fontenot will address the League of Women Voters-Hill Country Texas on Saturday, Jan. 14, at Marktplatz, 126 West Main in Fredericksburg.

Fontenot, a former nurse and practicing attorney, is a professional speaker who specializes in explaining how health care is changing and what those changes mean for health care providers as well as patients. Health care is always a top concern in America - the accessibility, cost and quality of care received are issues that have dominated the last several Federal elections.

As we head into 2023, a divided Congress is unlikely to pass new legislation affecting patients and their loved ones, but that could be good news. In the meantime, the Executive Branch in Washington will be finalizing regulations for negotiating drug prices, formalizing improved access to insurance through the ACA, protecting the new insulin cap, and finalizing the No Surprises Act and the Transparency Rules.

Sarah will walk us briefly through what will likely happen (and what will not happen) in health care in 2023. She has taught health law at Trinity University since 1997 and has been a frequent speaker for numerous national provider groups for the last two decades.

The League welcomes any interested to attend. A social time for members and guests to get acquainted will begin at 9:30 a.m. with light refreshments. The business meeting will begin at 10 a.m. and can also be accessed via Zoom. If you would like to receive a Zoom invitation, please email Janice Zitelman at Janice.r.zitelman@gmail.com.
